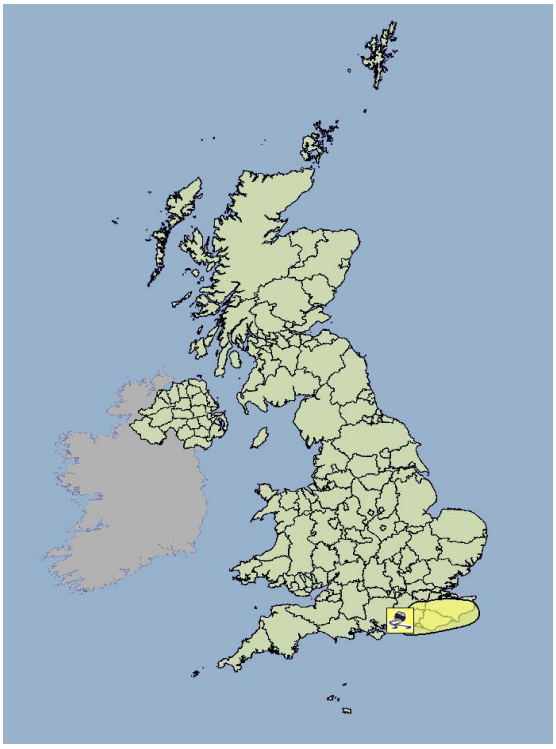
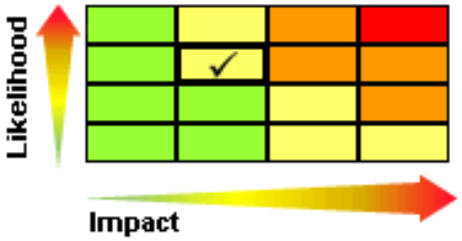
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
After a cold and frosty night a scattering of showers are expected to affect the area this morning. Although many surfaces are now above freezing some remain below and it is possible in these areas for some icy patches to temporarily develop this morning where showers fall on untreated surfaces or where showers have resulted in wash-off of previous treatment. Any ice should clear by 10am.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 08:35 on Fri, 06th Jan 2017 until 10:00 on Fri, 06th Jan 2017

Scattered showers are expected to affect parts of West and East Sussex, Surrey and Kent early this morning. With some surfaces still below freezing some icy patches are likely for a time.

There is a chance of difficult driving conditions on untreated surfaces and slippery conditions on pavements and cycle paths are possible.
